From the low of $0.40 in February, the cryptocurrency has risen more than 40%. At the time of writing on March 6th, Ripple (XRP) is valued at around $1.19. The high-flying XRP bears are now staring down a huge supply drain ahead. Despite the bullish momentum, the Ripple Token is now facing an anticipated supply cut of 54 million XRP. While this might seem bad for Ripple's price, many claim that it might be the catalyst for a massive rally. The Ripple Network has amassed over 240M addresses. These addresses represent companies, institutions, and individuals, using Ripple's xRapid liquidity protocol to transfer money. If these users choose to exit the network, the XRP supply will be drained. First Few To Go. According to calculations by report writer Jamie Lewis, there are approximately 40 million XRP in the network. The reason why this number is so specific is that Ripple Labs has actually promoted smart contracts that would allow users to purchase XRP. As a result, users buying and selling XRP are identified and by Bitcoinist.com's estimates, roughly 30% of the total supply is already exhausted. The other users who are not smart contracts will be notified in April, May, and June. To say it simply

For an idea of what to expect at the price of this set, look to the AMAZING Imperial Shuttle and TIE Fighter set. This set has everything you need for a 30 minute mission with one to two cadets in a Tie Fighter. Everything except the Tie Fighter itself is included, so kids can play with it, and you can use one of the other sets to make it a bit bigger. Putting it together takes about 45 minutes or so if you're a parent, and includes getting a little frustrated and making a few mistakes, but kids will get it and have a great time playing with it. Even better, the ONLY extra you need for the vehicle is a Y-Wing and that's included. It's the perfect size for a 30 minute mission. 4) Range Play This set is designed to last you a while and it's easy to put together a full mission, so kids don't have to worry about running out of time. It's only $20 and that money goes directly back to you to be spent on more Star Wars. It is small and could easily fit in a crate or on a shelf if you bought it at retail. However, it's a great space vehicle that kids can explore and have fun with. It's meant for a large group of kids to play together, so you don't need to worry about adding someone who won't be able to play. aa67ecbc25

You Should Be Focused on Standing Out We're all here for the same reason — to make money, which means we want to stand out. Whether we're up there on stage, or we're watching from the audience, we want to make a difference. We want our names to be spoken, our messages to be heard, and our offers to be noticed. No one likes to be invisible. We like to make a difference, and everyone else wants to make the same difference, too. So, how do we do this? We get out there! We put ourselves in front of as many eyeballs and ears as possible so that people can find us. We plan ahead and make sure we have the connections and resources to be heard. However, it's easy to be noticed when it's all for yourself — but that's not the case. If you don't make that one-way connection with your audience, you'll just be another face in the crowd. That's not good! A one-way connection with a crowd of people is much different than a one-way connection with only one person. Every human being on Earth has an inbuilt desire to have a one-way connection with something. We're human — it makes sense. In order to make an audience want to hear what you have to say, you need to make them want to connect with you. That is where you make a real connection and where your business stands out from the crowd. To ensure your message is heard, you need to go out of your way to bring people together. Out of everyone in your target audience, you want to bring together that group of people who are going to be your connections, your ears, and your eyes. How To Make a Connection with a Crowd of People People aren't going to stand by you if you're not going out there and giving them something to connect with. People want to be here, they don't want to be there. They want to connect with you. So, how do we go out there and connect with them? The first step is to get on message. When
